2500 UB Students
Seek Access for
CIA, Dow Recruiters

The Committee for Concerned Students, a student group at the State University of Buffalo which opposes an administration decision to bar Central Intelligence Agency and Dow Chemical Co. recruiters from campus, today said it has gathered about 2500 signatures on petitions supporting its position.

The CIA recruiters and those from Dow, which makes napalm used in the Vietnam war, were barred from campus by UB after anti-war demonstrators threatened violence if they should appear.

The CCS, a group of liberal and conservative students, was formed Friday to oppose the administration decision. It set up a table in Norton Union and used wandering petitioners and a student with a bull horn to get support. The petitions will be turned over to the UB administration.

The CCS said it doesn't "defend CIA and Dow—we defend their right to be heard."

The UB Student Senate will hold an open forum on the issue at 3 tomorrow afternoon in the Fillmore Room of Norton Union. Spokesmen for both sides of the dispute are expected to be heard.

Later the UB Faculty Senate will meet to decide whether the invitation will be renewed to the recruiters. There has been scattered violence and widespread protest in recent days on other university campuses throughout the nation against appearances by CIA and Dow recruiters.
